Note 1. Commentary provided by Mike Goodrich	The “Rotor Track and Balance Workshop” is a simple 1 - 2 hour presentation. It is not a rotor track and balance training session, that would be much longer and more detailed. The aim is to help owner/pilots to understand what track and balancing is about and how a balancer works. Covering things like, the acceptable vibration limits, what the Polar chart is and how to read it and what the balancer can and, more importantly, cannot do. The session starts with a very basic, no maths, introduction to vibration frequency analysis and the frequency spectrum to help participants separate out the different gyro vibrations and includes videos of different stick shakes to help diagnostics without complex tools. The session usually ends up with a lively debat.
